ALMC Receives Computer Server Donation from RainbowFish Software

Arusha Lutheran Medical Centre in Tanzania, East Africa recently received a wonderfully generous donation as a solution to the hospital's challenges in storing computerized X-ray Ultra Sound, and CT Scan images.

RainbowFish Software has appreciated the difficulties that ALMC is facing as the storage system for these images, which is called a PACS system, is outdated and unable to be expanded. RainbowFish is an American software producer and have now donated, for the first time ever in Africa, their top of the line software called PacsOne Server Premium Edition.

This donation is expected to drastically improve the storage and retrieval capacities of the hospital for its imaging department with the ultimate result of even better care available to the hospital patients.

ALMC Executive Director, Prof. Mark Jacobson, stated, "This donation is a game changer for ALMC and will allow us to move into the 21st Century of imaging and for telemedicine with our colleagues around the globe. It is truly a remarkable donation and it will enable ALMC to provide even a higher level of care to our patients!"
